If you are a jewellery lover then Meenakari jewellery is a must-have jewellery in your collection. In ancient times meenakari jewellery was used to show regality and the woman of every royal household had a huge attraction to meenakari jewellery set because of its intrigue design on a beautiful gold base. With time craftsmen started making this delicate piece on different other materials such as silver, copper, brass, etc., which makes it affordable and increase its popularity.

The beautiful meenakari art

There is a lot of confusion among the people that the art originated from Persia and came to India with the Mughals, according to some others the art has a timeless association with the vibrant state of Rajasthan. Raja Man Singh of Amer bring this beautiful and intricated artwork of Meenakari to Rajasthan by bringing highly skilled craftsmen from Lahore. Today, Jaipur is called the hub of Meenakari artwork. The meenakari work is widely done on gold in Jaipur, Delhi and Banaras while in Udaipur, Nathdwara and Bikaner the work of art is done on silver. With time meenakari jewellery has changed its trends and it's no more limited to the family business. You can also find meenakari jewellery in online traditional jewellery.

Process of making

It requires extreme perfection and skill to design this delicate art of work. The maker of this jewellery makes it very carefully by fusing the pieces of individual finely powdered coloured glass. Various type of oxides is taken into use to obtain the brightest colour. Some craftsman also uses powder from precious and semi-precious stones like quartz, crystal and sapphire.

Making meenakari jewellery takes a lot of time and also requires teamwork. It takes over few days or even months to complete a piece of jewellery. It starts with the designer, designing the most eye catchy design then goes to a goldsmith who makes the moulds for the jewellery design and designed the shape accordingly. Then the grafters engrave the designs and pass them to the meenakari, they then fill those engraved designs with beautiful colourful enamel. This process also includes firing and polishing the end product to give it a gorgeous look. In this way, beautiful meenakari jewellery is made by a group of talented craftsmen. Nowadays craftsman has also started designing meenakari jewellery in beautiful customized artificial jewellery to make it more affordable.

If you are a wedding guest and want to shine differently in the crowd then in this wedding session you can do your online artificial jewellery shopping for these beautiful and affordable pieces of meenakari jewellery from our online shop.
