harry potter spells list

Accio:

This spell is used to summon an object to the caster, making it an incredibly useful spell for when you can't reach something that is just out of reach. One of the most famous uses of this spell in the series is when Harry uses it to summon his broomstick during a Quidditch match.

Alohomora:

This spell is used to unlock doors and other objects that are sealed with magic. It's a useful spell for breaking into places you shouldn't be, but it can also be used for more practical purposes, like unlocking a classroom door when you're running late for class.

Avada Kedavra:

This is the most powerful and dangerous spell in the Harry Potter universe. It's a curse that causes instant death to the person it's aimed at, and is often referred to as the "killing curse". This spell is only used by the most powerful and evil wizards, such as Lord Voldemort.

Crucio:

This is one of the three Unforgivable Curses, meaning it is illegal to use and punishable by imprisonment in Azkaban. This spell causes intense pain to the person it's aimed at, and is often used by dark wizards to torture their victims.

Expecto Patronum:

This spell is used to summon a Patronus, which is a magical creature that acts as a guardian and protector. The Patronus takes the form of an animal that is unique to the caster, and is often used to ward off Dementors, which are dark creatures that suck the happiness out of people.

Expelliarmus:

This spell is used to disarm an opponent, causing them to drop whatever weapon or wand they're holding. It's a useful spell in duels, and is often used by Harry as a defensive manoeuvre.

Imperio:

This is another Unforgivable Curse, and is used to control the actions of another person. The person who is under the influence of this curse becomes completely subservient to the caster, and will do whatever they're told to do.

Leviosa:

This spell is used to levitate objects, making it a useful spell for moving heavy objects or for performing magic tricks. It's one of the first spells that Harry learns when he starts studying magic at Hogwarts.

Lumos:

This spell causes the tip of the wand to light up, providing a source of light in dark places. It's a useful spell for navigating through the dark, and is often used by Harry and his friends in Hogwarts castle.

Obliviate:

This spell is used to erase memories from the mind of another person. It's often used by the Ministry of Magic to modify the memories of Muggles (non-magical people) who have witnessed magical events.

Petrificus Totalus:

This spell can be considered as the best Harry Potter spells list and it causes the person it's aimed at to become completely immobilised, like they have been turned to stone. It's a useful spell in battles, and is often used by Harry and his friends to stop their opponents from moving.
